"Injustice to Mr. Logan."

To the Editor.

It is a sufficient answer to the low, dirty lings against Gen. Loran, published under the aption in Saturday morning's Post, to say that it 1855 and 1859 he was a full-blooded demoin 1855 and 1859 he was a full-blooded democrat, and as he never does anything by the halves, so in his fealty to his party and the laws of the laws of the land he "went the whole heg' in carrying out democratic principies and in enforcing a law enacted by a democratic congress.

The democratic destrine in those days was,
as well as the democratic practice in these latter days, that "a colored plans have the latter days, that "a colored has here.

The democratic doctrine in those days was, as well as the democrate practice in these latter days that "a colored man has no rights that a white man is bound to respect."

But the firing upon our nations a flag at sum ter was too much for John A. Logan. He became convicted of the sin of belonging to and contentancing a party the entrying out of whose principles produced such a result. He experienced a change of heart, was thoroughly converted, and since that time has stood forth in the chanpion of equal rights before the law to all men, the consistent edwords of free speech, a free ballot, and a fair count.

Pace's famous cartoon of Logan associated with Lincolm, summer, see, properly understood, is one of the strongest recommendations for Logan, showing, as it does the difference between Logan as a shavery democrat, in 1855-185, and Logan as candidate for vice president on the republican ticket in 1884.

No, no, gentlemen of the democratic party of consistency, purity, reform, and morality, don't trouble yourselves about John A. Logan, nor think that your miserable attempts to excite a suspicion amone "the Loga in attempts to excite a suspicion amone "the Loga in the will slight them, will avail. They know him, and they know the avoid as will cause the coppetheavis to sneak tock into their holes and hide their slimy heads forever.

Prott Released on Rall.

Another and successful effort was made last sturday to get Francis Prott out of jail, where Saturday to get Francis Prott out of jail, where he has been continued for two weeks past, on a writ of capies ad satisfactendum issued in the cases brought against him by Wallace, Eillott & Co. and Engene N. Howell, of New York, on judgments obtained by them. The question before Judge Hagner was the motion to question has write on the ground that it was improvidently and ilegally issued. Messrs, Illie, Claughten, and Tobriner appeared for the motion and Messrs. Cook & Cole and Wm. F. Mattingty for the New York parties. After quite a lengthy argument Judge Hagner overtruled the motion, holding that the law was against the defendant. It was subsequently argued to france charges of fruid and submit them to trial by jury next fall, and in the meantime Mr. Prott is to be at liberty on $6,000 ball.

NO PAUPER LABOR PLAN, But a Scheme to Get Foreign Laborers for American Farms.

"No, we are not engaged in a grand cheap labor importation scheme," said Mr. W. H. Main, the real estate broker, to a REPUBLISAN reporter Saturday. 'Our enterprise is a col outzation one primarily. We are tired of sell-ing good farms to good men and having to handle them again inside of a year because the owners could get no help to work them. Good Industrious German immigrants are poseing westward every day, and we shall never ge any in this section unless we send over after them. What I am anxious to see is a let of these people settle about here upon such size farms as they can pay for, dividing up the large farms to suit the circumsances of the purchasers. To accommodate those who want to cultivate larger farms we propose to being out good, healthy laborers from Germany; they are the ones to make a farm shrine."

shine:

"Then your scheme is confined to land selling ?"

"Yes; with 'incidental protection' to purchasers in the form of a supply of farm hands. They are not to be got in sufficient quantities here now, and these that can be obtained are large and independent. Why, at a farm which I recently bought near here, the laborers never got to work ill 8 o'clock in the morning, leave at noon, and it is 2 before they get back into the field, while they quit promptly at 8. One man took four days to plow a corn field of five acres the other day."

"How do you propose to accomplish this reform—to get your farmers and farm hands?"

"Our Mr. Krait, who was born in Germany, but has been a practical farmer in Maryland for twenty-dix years, starts heat week to work among his computations. No one will be pat on our books intil we know how much money be has, and then he will be othered such a piece of land as his means—nextly him in purchasing. In the matter of laborers we will bring out only such as can pay their way and are healthy and thrifty. We have no contract system in ours, nor do we dealer to cheapen labor by a cent." Then your scheme is confined to land sel
